Mrs. Riddle was a passenger in an automobile operated by her brother, W. B. Shinkle, who was driving north when a car driven by an unidentified motorist struck his machine and sped away. Shinkle's auto crashed into two others and turned over twice.

Mrs. Riddle was thrown through a window and her head crushed. Shinkle sustained minor injuries.

New Waterford Woman Hurt

Mrs. Elmer Felger, 33, of New Waterford, is in Salem City hospital, suffering from injuries sustained when the automobile driven by her husband was involved in a head-on collision with another machine Saturday night.

Mrs. Felger sustained serious lacerations about the left arm. Two children, Dorothy, two, and Walter, 11, were cut and bruised while Felger escaped unhurt. The name of the driver of the other car was not learned.

Frank J. Haber, Chaleroi, Pa., was injured when his machine struck an automobile owned by John Jersorsky of Pennsylvania, Saturday afternoon. The accident occurred on State Highway No. 7 between the Township Line school and Williamsport.

Four cars were involved in the crash. Jersorsky, who was also slightly injured, stopped his machine on the highway to change tires when Haber's car, proceeding north, struck it. Two automobiles from Maryland, driving south, were struck by Haber's machine when it careened off Jersorsky's car.

Neither Jersorsky or Haber were seriously injured. The former was accompanied by his wife, her mother and two children who were unhurt. Sheriff W. J. Barlow investigated the accident.

Three persons were injured when automobiles driven by Florence Morris and Charles Wilson, both of East Liverpool, collided on the Lisbon-Elkton rd. at 1 p. m. Sunday. Wilson and his wife sustained cuts and bruises while Miss Morris was bruised.

Wilson's machine turned over twice after the crash. A Pennsylvania physician, passing by, rendered first aid to the injured. Two Chicago, Ill., nurses, Miss Lella M. Locke and Miss Martha Johnson, were cut and bruised when their automobile was ditched on the Lisbon-Elkton rd. near Lisbon Saturday morning.

Mathews, Jr. to Start 100-
Hour Non-Stop Trip
Here Tuesday

Fred "Daredevil" Mathews, Jr., 20, said to be the youngest endurance driver in the United States, will attempt a 100-hour automobile non-stop drive starting at 3 p. m. Tuesday.

Operating a new free wheeling Plymouth, the youth will start his drive in front of The Salem Publishing company building, shackled to the steering wheel by regulation police handcuffs. He proposes to complete the drive at 7 n. m. Saturday.

Mathews, son of Fred Mathews, Sr., who completed a successful 100-hour drive in Salem last year, will make scheduled appearances at business places of merchants sponsoring the trip regularly between 7 a. m. and midnight. Hourly visits will be made at police headquarters during the night.

The trip is sponsored by Wilbur L. Coy and company, automobile dealers, in conjunction with other Salem merchants. The youth has completed 18 drives ranging from 100 to 120 hours while his father has made 72 endurance trips and claims the world record of driving 145 hours without a stop.

At the conclusion of his drive here Saturday, Mathews will stop at the Coy garage, North Lundy ave. and will be taken to the Rose Lee Beauty Shoppe, East State st., by the new invalid coach, furnished by O. G. Stark, Salem funeral director. Stark's invalid coach will then drive him to the John F. Class Health Pumphouse and from there to the Coy garage where he will be permitted to sleep.

Appointment of a superintendent of Salem public schools is expected when members of the board of education gather in another special meeting, their fifth session in less than two weeks, at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday.

Investigations were conducted last week by the school board into applications of two of three candidates still being considered for the post and another meeting was held for further consideration of applicants at the high school Saturday afternoon.

Hope to Reach Decision

Members said today they hope to reach a final decision Tuesday.

The board plans to offer the successful applicant a three-year contract with $4,500 salary for the first year.

Visits were made by members to home cities of two applicants last Friday. Detailed investigations were made and the results were discussed at their special session Saturday.

No definite action was taken toward the elimination of any of the three candidates, board members said.

The board has been unable to conduct interviews with the third candidate, who is in New York City. Efforts have been made to have him appear at a special meeting for an interview, members said, but his presence here appeared improbable, no answer having been received from him.

Action Tuesday night is expected by board members to complete investigations into more than 50 applications received from educators in eight states.

CHARRED RUINS TELL STORY OF TRAGEDY

Blackened beds and charred beams reveal the intensity of the fire which raged through the Home for the Aged, conducted by the Little Sisters of the Poor, Pittsburgh, consuming 40 of the enfeebled inmates and nuns and severely burning many others. Inset is Frank Daly, 16, one of the heroes of the disaster, who nearly lost his own life. He first broke an artery, in smashing a window, to get at the trapped men and women, then was overcome by smoke. Firemen worked over him for 45 minutes with oxygen tanks, before reviving him.

VICTIM OF FEUD DIES IN CANTON

Murder Theory Advanced
By Coroner; Find Body
Beside Highway

Stark county authorities today were investigating the death of Harry Sarinides, 35, of Canton, who was found in an unconscious condition on the Alliance-Canton rd. west of Salem by passing motorists Sunday morning.

Believed to have been the victim of a bootleg feud, Sarinides was found on the side of the road early Sunday morning by P. C. Rowland, Canton, and two companions. He was taken to Canton Mercy hospital where he died.

The front of the man's head was crushed in, Dr. McQuate said. The coroner offered the theory that Sarinides had been "taken for a ride" and thrown from an automobile.

A robbery theory was discounted after $30 was found in one shoe.

Four children and his widow survive.

Att'y Lee M. Jones Succumbs in Canton

DAMASCUS, July 27.—Relatives here have been advised of the death of Atty. Lee M. Jones, 89, of Canton, oldest member of the Stark county bar association, at 6 p. m. Saturday.

Atty. Jones died suddenly. Heart disease is given as the cause of death. He was born about one mile south of Damascus, and spent his early life in this vicinity. He had lived in Canton since 1897, in which year he graduated from Mt. Union college. He practiced law in Canton for years.

Surviving are two children, Miss Edith Jones at home and Joshua Jones of Toledo. He was an uncle of Mrs. J. R. Stratton of Salem.

Funeral service will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday at the home, Cleveland ave. Interment will be at Canton.

Select Jury to Try Youngstown Slayer

WARREN, July 27.—Selection of a jury to try Louis Vitullo, 35, Youngstown poolroom owner, on charges of murdering Miss Betty Pelko, 25, of Cleveland, was started in court here today with a special panel of 60 talesmen ready. Miss Pelko and Vitullo allegedly were intimate.

The specific charge of the state is that Vitullo took Miss Pelko into the back of his car and shot her in the back and put her body in a culvert near McDonald, where it was found by two boys.

Sisters, Stunned, Join in Probe of Disastrous Blaze

(By Associated Press)
PITTSBURGH, July 27.—Little Sisters of the Poor, still stunned by the fire which destroyed their home and took the lives of two score of their aged charges; weary from long hours spent in searching for the missing and re-assembling those who survived, joined today in the inquiry into the disastrous blaze.

The death toll had reached 40 today and there still were more than 100 injured in hospitals. Ten unidentified dead lay in the morgue, and their identification, officials believed, probably would erase the list of 10 reported missing.

Many of those in hospitals will die, physicians said as they battled to prevent pneumonia and to stave off death from shock.

Meanwhile, many of the aged and infirm, who were removed to temporary quarters were being taken to another home maintained by the Little Sisters of the Poor.

The city, county and state centered an inquiry on the twisted, charred four-story building, which late Friday night became an inferno from a cause still undetermined.

Graf Heading To Franz Joseph Land

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, GERMANY, July 27.—Last word from the dirigible Graf Zeppelin put her well above the Arctic circle at 68 degrees north latitude, longitude 43 east.

A wireless report from the ship was received at the Zeppelin works here just before midnight.

On the basis of the position reported at that time by the dirigible, she was well on her way to Franz Joseph land, where Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander, expected to make contact today with the Russian ice-breaker Malignin.

The ship left Leningrad at 11:10 a. m. Sunday (4:10 a. m., E. S. T.) and her schedule called for about six days in the Arctic during which the party of scientists aboard planned to gather data about winds and weathers.

PRISON SYSTEM IS DENOUNCED

Wickersham Report Raps
Brutality; Suggests
Education Plan

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, July 27.—The Wickersham law enforcement commission today condemned the nation's prison system as antiquated, inefficient, failing to reform the criminal or protect society, and as using brutal disciplinary measures without justification.

Submitting its seventh report to President Hoover, dealing with "penal institutions, probation and parole," the commission advocated the creation of a new system in which education would be uppermost.

Denounces Conditions
Much of the report was a denunciation of prison conditions, characterized as "almost incredible," under which men are imprisoned in overcrowded cells without sufficient light or fresh air or benefit of modern plumbing.

It lashed out also at the system of prison discipline described as "traditional, antiquated, unintelligent and not infrequently cruel and inhuman." Asserting these methods "contribute to the increase of crime by hardening the prisoner," the commission urged they be banned by law.

Among the punishments revealed, many of them visited upon prisoners for slight offenses, were the shackling of men to doors for 12 hours a day, whipping, placing them in straight jackets, lashing them down under streams of cold water, confining them in cages so small that movement was impossible, and keeping them in complete darkness for days at a time on a ration of four ounces of bread every 24 hours.

A "Vicious Circle"

"It is clear at present that the more punishment in prison the more discontent, the more discontent the more irritation, the more irritation the more plotting, the more plotting the more violation of rules and the greater need for more severe punishment. The whole process is a vicious circle."

PARIS, July 27—In other days it was a part of a night out to drift to the Hautes Centrales around 4 a. m. for a bowl of steaming onion soup. But in these more sedate years I had to be routed out by the hotel night concierge to join Willis Morgan on his daily visit to the markets.

The great Central markets are reached along upper rue de Rivoli and have been the site of Paris' food supply for centuries. The markets are in huge warehouse-like halls. Its early morning vigor has a shrieking, roaring bliancy that is almost deafening.

Amidst with blue bloused porters, the "foris des halles" (strong men of the markets), screaming viragos, early morning drunks and swearing truckmen it offers a slice of Parisian life that is the most stimulating in all the town. The tempo is as red-cupped as the blood from the dripping beets.

Here are the buxom, ruddy and laughing marchandes, the saleswomen, who seem to be in an eternal sally with customers. There is no sale without haggling. After the market closes come the pinched, spindly legged children who search the refuse for food. Also elder chifferons with sticks.

They sort through the cast off fruits, vegetables and other oddments to refurbish and re-sell for the potaueuf of the Paris slums. Next in interest among the local mart, I think, is the Flea Market, so called because of its fifth, and held twice weekly near one of the eastern gates.

From a casual glance the Flea Market seems to be a field with piles of abandoned junk and debris. It is mostly that, for one indeed may actually barter there for second hand tooth-brushes. Yet out of its jinkle-jumble treasure hunters have come upon rare and authenticated antiques—the loot of thieves.

Too, there is the Marche Tabac once a week at Place Maubert. Here the tattered old gutter scavengers exchange, buy and sell collections of cigar and cigarette stubs. Ends of American cigarettes, incidentally, bring the very highest prices—a sou for about a hatful.

An exclusive novelty shop in one block long rue Royale shows what looks to be a huge marquis shaped diamond ring. It is carried in Milady's purse and the diamond is a strip of mirror. Adjusted to a finger the owner may inspect her rouging and powdering.

Champs Elysees has become somewhat the Fleet street of Paris. Along its expansive and sweeping pathway are such publications as Le Figaro, L'Ami du Peuple, Le Petit Parisien, L'Excelsior, Femina, Chiffons, Je Sais Tout, Comedie, Le Rire, Fantasio, Cinemonde, La Nation, Candide, Ric et Rac and The Boulevardier. Incidentally Paris has a total of 166 daily newspapers—mostly four-page sheets and often devoted to the fruits of political blackmail.

Ike Meltzer, the Brooklyn Bridge newsie, still rushes up and down the Paris boulevards crying his American papers. For eight years he has been a familiar figure among tourists in front of the cafe de la Paix. Harry's Bar, Weber's and the Ritz Bar. His winters are spent around the Frank Gould casino at Nice, where he is also well known. Ike is married to an English girl and is the oldest American newsboy in point of service on the continent. He makes Paris a bit more friendly.

Paris has a drink automat. It is a bistro in rue Fontaine, where one may slip a coin in a slot and lap up a choice of five drinks. It is not popular. Parisians not only want to dawdle over drinks, they want beau-coup conversation along with them.

A hatless young blade bowed up to an American flapper along the curb in Place Vendome this morning and cried: "How about knocking over a few lamp posts before lunch? She hopped in and they roared away.

The current hit tune of the cabarets is "La Petite Tonkinoise," popularized by the septa Josephine Baker, of Harlem. I saw Miss Baker, her nails a brilliant red and hair en brosse, dining in one of the most fashionable restaurants in Paris with what looked like a mon-oled Egyptian.

The Stars Say —

For Tuesday, July 28

A day of unusual activity and commotion may be predicted from the dominant place of Mars in trine aspect with Luna. Other testimonies enhance this prospect, but accent the possibility of disruption, sudden movements and dangers of an unexpected and surprising nature. Much sagacity and self-restraint are called for, but with these, despite much stubborn impediment, new ventures may thrive. Be discreet in private affiliations.

Those whose birthday it is are ordained to have a year of great commotion, stirring about and possible confusion and adventure into new channels. Setbacks and frustrations must be encountered with calmness and ingenuity if benefits are to accrue from complicated conditions and baffling situations. Beware of intrigue and personal friction. A child born on this day should be enterprising and adventurous, disposed to keen and quick initiative, despite many obstacles and impediments. It may be clever and subtle as well as decisive and resolute.

Pneumonia Accounts For Many Deaths

Pneumonia is one of the most dreaded of human ailments. It is a disease of great significance, since it takes a great toll of the aged and of the very young.

Sir William Osler aptly described this disease as "Captain of the Men of Death." Pneumonia accounts for about 10 per cent of the deaths in a community. It does not respect age, sex or locality.

Pneumonia has been known ever since man has been subject to disease and suffering. Its prevention has been greatly advanced, but little progress has been made in its treatment.

Within the past decade more research work has been conducted of this disease than in relation to any other similar infection. Great impetus was given to this work during the World War.

Under the guidance of the Rockefeller Institute new knowledge concerning pneumonia has been developed. As a result of this work it has been definitely determined that there are four types of pneumonia.

More than half of all cases of pneumonia are of the so-called Types I or II. Type III is the most severe type and fortunately only about ten per cent of cases belong to this group. Group, or Type, IV is spoken of as the miscellaneous group, to which about a third of all cases of pneumonia belong.

Most outstanding in the work at the Rockefeller Institute has been the development of a curative serum. This serum differs according to the type or group of pneumonia. Animals inoculated with these serums develop an immunity or resistance to pneumonia.

This method of treatment has been applied to humans. In many cases it has been more than successful. In other cases it has been disappointing in its results.

Further study is required before this desirable and much needed treatment is perfected. It is hoped that we will soon be more capable of combating this disease and reducing its mortality rate.

Answers to Health Queries

Rolls. Q.—Would over-indulgence in eating stewed carrots cause any trouble? The patient has been in ill health and has recently acquired an almost greedy appetite for this vegetable.

A.—Over-indulgence in any food is wrong, but carrots are healthful and nutritious and contain valuable mineral salts and vitamins.

R. T. Q.—What would cause a lump to form on the back of the head?

A.—What causes numbness of the third toe—when rubbed the feeling seems to disappear?

A.—It would be rather difficult to advise you without seeing the formation. See your doctor for examination and advice. In some instances the rubbing of a shoe will cause a callous on the heel. Perhaps this is what you refer to.

2.—This is probably due to circulatory disturbance. Massage and application of heat should give increased comfort and relief. Be sure that your shoes are not interfering with the proper circulation through your feet.

J. T. C. Q.—What causes nervousness and how can it be overcome?

A.—There are any number of causes—it would be rather difficult to advise without knowing something about the case in question. For full particulars send a self addressed stamped envelope and repeat your question.

SECRET PLACES

By Joan Sutherland

Synopsis of Preceding Instalments:

Feodor Staire, attaché of the British Embassy in Paris, had been sentenced to be hanged, after a sensational trial in London, for the murder in Paris of the wealthy Comte Henri D'Arblaye, but the sentence was commuted to life imprisonment. Ronald Halkett was Feodor's best friend and Ronald's wife Greta had been suspected. Feodor was engaged to Toni Wareham, Greta's younger sister and daughter of Lady Alice Wareham. Ronald's newspaper work demanded long hours and Greta had been much in the company of D'Arblaye. Toni asked Feodor to escort Greta home from a ball but she left with D'Arblaye. Staire followed and was outside D'Arblaye's apartment house, caught in a sudden storm, when Greta came running out, saying she had shot D'Arblaye when he snatched her up in his arms and started to carry her into another room. She had forgotten her handbag. Feodor sent her home in a taxi, went back, wiped all fingerprints from the pistol, got the bag, but was hailed by the concierge as he was leaving. Staire gave him his name. Before his arrest he coached Greta by phone to say she had not entered D'Arblaye's apartment. When the heart-broken Toni returned to Paris after Feodor's trial, she consented to pose for a portrait by Paul Ravel, famous artist, to please her worried mother. Gigi, his model for several noted paintings, insinuated to him that she knew Greta was the murderer.

Instalment XXIV
It was possible, of course, that Greta had murdered D'Arblaye. It was also possible that Feodor was shielding her; but how, and why? How did he, Paul Ravel, know? And if it were so, how was this miscarriage of justice to be put right?

Feodor Staire would never consent to free himself at the cost of his friend's wife and the sister of the girl he loved, even if he could. Having once been accused of the crime, he must expiate it, unless some external influence took charge and cleared him.

Ravel had all a Frenchman's horror of the law. He had a Frenchman's susceptibility to beauty, but he also had a Frenchman's hardness when it came to self-preservation. He was fond of Staire. Beautiful as he considered Greta, he disliked her; and his natural feeling of chivalry for a woman did not go deep enough to make him anxious to sacrifice Staire to shelter her. Ravel was determined that justice should be done, even if Greta suffered either the supreme penalty, or the punishment that had already been meted out to the man she had allowed to suffer for her. But how? How to get this matter clear, how to find out the truth? How even to begin?

The first thing would be to see Greta. He could perhaps form an opinion if he saw Greta and twisted the conversation as he deemed necessary, but not in Toni's presence—and what possible excuse could he make? Ah! He had it. He wrote a hasty note to Ronald, asking him if he would bring his wife to see the portrait of Toni. He fixed a time when he knew quite well that Ronald would have to be at the office of L'Etoile, and carefully suggested in the note that he would be extremely honored if Madame Halkett would take tea in his studio if Monsieur Halkett were unable to come. It was somewhere about three in the morning, so he was unable to send the note at once, but now that he had formulated some course of action, he felt more at his ease. At least now he had set the ball rolling. How would Greta react to the test he intended to make?

Later that same morning he sent a note round to Gigi's lodgings, telling her to call that afternoon at half-past four. He mentioned that Greta Halkett would be there.

Ravel felt Judas—like as he welcomed Greta that afternoon. She was looking her loveliest in a fur coat that showed up the fairness of her skin and hair, and she smiled very charmingly as she explained that Ronald was desolate that he could not accept the invitation also, but that he would be at the newspaper offices and would try to call for her in a short time. "This is a most charming studio, Monsieur Ravel," Greta said more cordially than she usually spoke. "The color and the lovely things you have! May I look round?"

"With pleasure." He began a tour of the walls with her, and finding that she was really interested in his work showed her some of his more recent canvases, and she, to his surprise, was a most intelligent and appreciative guest; so that he began profoundly to regret the invitation he had sent to Gigi, and told himself that his half-formed suspicion could not be true. It was quite impossible that a woman so charming, so beautiful, with eyes so clear and limpid, could be hard enough to allow a man to suffer so hideous a sentence for her fault.

Just as they began tea they heard a slight altercation in the hall, and the next moment Gigi stroiled into the room.

With simulated surprise and not a little annoyance Ravel rose to his feet. "I am afraid I cannot work just now," he said, "I have a guest, Gigi."

Gigi glanced at Greta, then at Ravel.

"May I stay?" she said. "I have made a mistake. I thought you told me to come to you this afternoon. Perhaps you will let me wait a little while, as I have to go to Monsieur Caros at five."

Greta looked at her carelessly. She recognized her instantly as the model of the picture that had made Ravel so famous in the Salon the year before, but did not even nod to the girl—who was, to her own idea, of another world than hers—him in a fight. After all, what else could have happened? Nobody else entered D'Arblaye's flat.

"There does not seem to have been any one else," Ravel admitted, "but surely it is hard to say that it was not possible? You saw D'Arblaye late. Did he appear to be quarrelsome or in an angry mood when you left him?"

Greta looked sharply. Was it his fancy, or were her eyes a little dilated?

"Yes, I saw him fairly late," she said. "I said goodbye to him, as you know, only a little while before. It has been a most unpleasant business, Monsieur Ravel. I think I would rather not talk about it. The whole thing is most distressing for us—for all the family."

Ravel bowed deeply.

"A thousand apologies, Madame," he said. "I should not have been so thoughtless. I should have known better, but Monsieur Staire is a friend of mine, and I hoped perhaps you could have given me some enlightenment upon the subject—aided me in believing that there was a possibility that the true culprit might be found. Of course, I know that the whole family will do their best to clear him. He is to appeal, I understand?"

"I believe so," Greta shivered again and drew her cloak round

her. "I must be going, Monsieur Ravel," she added. "Evidently my husband is not calling for me. It is so tiresome doing newspaper work; one never knows when he will be free."

"Goodbye, Monsieur Ravel, I have so enjoyed my tea with you and my chat. No; I won't have a taxi. I am going to walk. I like the cold air today."

Ravel saw her down to the street, and then he came back, walking up the three flights of stone stairs very slowly, his brows drawn, for as he bade her farewell a forgotten memory flashed back into his mind—the memory of a sunny day at the Ritz, and of a great jewel that passed from D'Arblaye's hands to Greta's throat—and as he entered his studio Gigi sprang out from her alcove, knocking down several spare canvases.

"You heard!" she said. "Well, what do you think now?"

Ravel shivered. "I don't wish to talk about it," he said. "Gigi, what do you mean? Nom de Dieu! You mean—it is too horrible. You have no right to suggest—"

"No," Gigi looked up at him sideways; "but I have the right to think. I am sure. She played too long with D'Arblaye, and he tried to force her, and she killed him in sudden panic. I am sure. She would always shrink from paying her debts. She did not like the conversation, yet she began it. She did not show any real sympathy with Monsieur Staire. She felt uncomfortable. She tried to get away from it; she shivered, yet it fascinated her. Why did she do all these things? This woman, oh, I tell you, she makes me sick in my stomach!"

Ravel looked down at his little guest in amazement. Gigi's slender body was actually shuddering. Presently, annoyed at the silence, Gigi looked up.

"Why don't you speak?" she said. "Why do you not say you do not believe?"

"Because I think I do believe you," Ravel said slowly. "But wait, Gigi, what can be done? I cannot go to her and say: 'You murdered this man—I believe you killed him, and you met Monsieur Staire near the place and put the blame upon him.' That is impossible. One can't do those things."

Gigi gave a violent twist of her slender little body. "Oh! One cannot do this—one cannot do that!" she exclaimed. "Very likely not; but are you going to let him rot out his life in an English prison? Bah! You have no feeling."

"I have a great deal of feeling, on the contrary," Ravel said patiently. "But I must think. You must give me time, Gigi. This is a very great difficulty."

"Leave her to me. I will find out," she said boastfully. "I discovered what none of you so clever people discovered. She shall confess herself. Just wait; but ask her—" she waved her cigarette in the direction of Toni's portrait—"ask her to come, too. I am sure there is something she will be able to tell me."

cedure is in the nature of a vicious circle for which there seems to be no remedy," the commission said.

Outlining what it considered the ideal, the commission asserted segregation of the diseased, insane, drug addicted and hardened criminal was one of the first requisites.

Under the proposed system all prisoners would be paid wages, their treatment would be more humanized, the choosing of prison officials would be removed from politics, and guards would be trained specifically for the task.

Parole System "Joke"

It was advocated that "no man should be sent to a penal institution until it is definitely determined that he is not a fit subject for probation." Extension of the parole system also was urged as the "best means yet devised for releasing prisoners from confinement."

COURT NEWS

In Common Pleas

After being locked up a day and a half, a jury in the case of William J. and Fred Winland against The William Erlanger Co., returned two forms of verdict to Judge W. F. Lones. The jury had been out but a few hours when it notified the court it was ready to report, but when the verdict was read, it was discovered that the jury had not completed its task, and was sent back.

Then 24 hours later other points to be determined by the jury were agreed upon, and as a result a verdict for the plaintiff on one cause of action for $3,587.57 was returned. On the second claim a verdict for $55 was returned in favor of the defendant and on its fourth counter claim it obtained a verdict for $200. On all other counter claims the verdict was for the plaintiff. The case went to trial July 16, and was given to the jury July 22.

In the foreclosure action filed by the Putters Savings & Loan Co., against Allen and Leona Green, a sale has been confirmed, a decree entered and a decree of distribution ordered.

A similar entry has been made by the court in the case of the same plaintiff against The Parent Durbur Co.

The appeal bond has been fixed at $2,500 by the court in the mandatory injunction action filed by the village of New Waterford against Maed Cauffiel, doing business as the Cauffiel Gas Co. This is an action to require the company to take up its gas lines from the streets of the village.

There has been a dismissal at the costs of the defendant in the case of Lee Grainger against Charles F. Mindling, and without further record.

An order relating to the compensation allowed J. D. DeWeese, as receiver of the Y. & O. Railroad Co., has been made by the court, covering the months of June, July and August. The compensation has been set at $700 monthly, but any compensation allowed after Aug. 31 has been reserved by the court. The journal entry shows that considerable work has had to be done by the receiver in winding up the affairs of the corporation.

Judgments by confession on cognovit notes have been entered by the court in favor of John Pascola doing business as the John Pascola Coal Co., for $660.23 and costs against Peter and Adam Cibula, and in favor of the Farmers National bank for $5,143.36 against Cope Bros. and Fultz Nursery Inc.

Company To Reorganize

Application for the appointment of a receiver and the dissolution of the Salem Chattel Mortgage Co. as a corporation, has for its purpose the reorganization of the company, it was announced in common pleas court following a hearing Friday afternoon before Judge W. F. Lones on the appointment of a receiver.

The court took the question of the appointment of a receiver under consideration and directed the officers, directors and shareholders to show cause Aug. 29 why the corporation should not be dissolved. The officers of the company have also been directed by the court to immediately serve notice of the order upon all the shareholders of the corporation in the manner required by law.

Testimony was offered the court showing that Thomas Cadwalder controls 51 per cent of the stock of the corporation, and that the plaintiffs in the action, J. W. Yates, W. A. Tetlow, Ira Burton and Elmer Koenreich, are minority shareholders. Plaintiffs testified that they had not been receiving dividends regularly, but counsel for Cadwalder brought out that this may be due to the present depressed business situation.

"Who's Who" in Columbiana and Mahoning Counties

By Edward Schermer

THE SALEM TOOL CO.

Manufacturers of miners and butchers tools, forgings and job machine work. Jobbers of household supplies.

It was Ralph Waldo Emerson, that illustrious exponent of American Philosophy, who is credited with that gem of clear thought and vision, in which he says, "Let a man write a better book, preach a better sermon, or make a better mouse trap than his neighbor, though he built his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door."

Now as far as I know no member of this firm ever wrote a book, preached a sermon or built a mouse trap, but a good many people have beaten a path to the door of The Salem Tool Co., so I believe they must have at least read that epic of Mr. Emerson's, for they have certainly adhered to the tenets of its teaching in the pursuit of their business and if they have it has surely been with profitable results, for the beaten path to the door is very plain and the hinges on that door will never grow rusty. They're kept swinging all the time to the tune of many satisfied customers.

Mr. H. S. Wilson is president of this enterprising firm, with Mr. C. Thurman, vice president, and H. Wilson, secretary, so that the career and record of The Salem Tool Co. located at Salem has been one of undeviating progress ever since its origin in 1901, as successors to the Leetonia Tool Co., during which time it has upheld the basic principles of sound merchandise and unexcelled quality upon which it was founded. Its efficient and constant service to the people of this section has been recognized by them in the form of an ever-increasing patronage resulting in one of the largest plants of its kind in the county.

The business houses of a Nation, State, County or Town collectively—and individually—are vital links of a large chain that binds together and makes for the strength and prosperity of that State, Nation, County or Town. This concern is one of those important links that are largely responsible for the high standing and commercial supremacy of Columbiana county among other counties of the state.

ANDALUSIA DAIRY CO.

Ice cream and dairy products. E. H. Campbell, Manager.

Business houses of this nature have always played an important role in Columbiana county's forward progress. Because of years of successful venture right here in your midst; because of such close association with many of its citizens; because of an inherent good business sense that tells them that their future is unalterably wrapped in the future of Columbiana county, this form Andalusia Dairy Co. has developed a rather close affinity with the county in general, and their business is, in great measure, distributed throughout its breadth.

The products of The Andalusia Dairy Co. have firmly and indelibly impressed their merits on the people of this county, and their increasing patronage is more than ample proof that people do know and do appreciate good merchandise; that they are willing, yes eager, to pay a fair price for it, and will even go a little out of their way to get it. Give them a fair "shake," that's all they want.

HAHN BROS. MOTOR CO.

Ford sales and service. Repairing, gas, oils, accessories.

It is not the intention to convey to you readers the impression that these merchants who have not advertised with us are not reliable merchants. Rather, it is our purpose to tell you that those who are mentioned in this commercial history are firms who, from our own personal observation, are firms well worthy of your patronage and are firms who can and do live up to the things we say of them.

Now we all know that it is important to use care and consideration in having repairs made to automobiles. Many of us have experienced the results of poor workmanship, costly results, generally. A poor mechanic is not hard to find and neither is a good one difficult to locate. We are writing of one now when we write of Hahn Bros. Motor Co. at Homeworth. You may bring your car here for repairs and know that it will be properly taken care of and at a price that will not strain your purse strings. A shop with every facility to expedite the work has been an important factor in the growth of the business and that, coupled with the many years of practical experience these men enjoy, will no doubt be instrumental in the continuance of that growth, a growth that has been constant ever since the business was started in a comparatively small way 11 years ago; started by those two native born citizens of Columbiana county.

COLUMBIANA BRICK CO.

Buick and Oakland and Pontiac cars. Harry Herrmann, prop.

There are none to dispute the well known fact that the automobile is the essence of perfection in transportation and it is also a well known fact among the knowing that these cars represent perfection in the automotive industry. An uninterrupted and smooth flow of power and pep you never believed existed has been built into the new lines of Buick, Oakland and Pontiac cars. Solid, massively rugged strength and beauty of line, always a dominant feature of these cars, have been enhanced by many new features that will immediately attract your attention. The General Motors policy, ALWAYS RELIABLE is reflected in every model.

It might also be said that no car is better than the service given to it by the man who sells it and in this respect the Columbiana Buick Co. measures up to every standard set by the manufacturer, briefly, to afford prompt and efficient service in every detail.

THE DARROW

GARDEN CO.

R. H. Darrow, proprietor. Few businesses in Mahoning county have enjoyed the steady and consistent growth attained by The Darrow Garden Co. of Boardman.

Since its inception in 1903 the firm has gone ahead in the most progressive manner, enlarging their stock and bettering their service from year to year until now they enjoy and occupy an important niche in the business chain of Mahoning county. The firm's affairs are not confined to local limits, but extend over a wide area, and the large patronage they have is indeed a reflection of the high esteem in which they are held by the people of this entire section.

ROLLER'S MILL

Feed, grain, cider and apple butter factory. H. S. Roller, prop.

From a little acorn grows the mighty oak. A small seed is planted and with the nourishment and stimulus provided by the surrounding earth, the little seed takes root and then timidly peeks its head above the ground and with reassurance slowly grows and increases in size till with the advent of future years it becomes a mighty oak, strong, steady, reliable and still growing.

And so it is with the firm of Roller's Mill which first took root here in 1914. During the ensuing years this concern, like the little acorn, grew and expanded, entrenching itself more deeply as the years rolled by, in the industrial firmament of Columbiana county. Its strength and healthy condition is clearly emphasized in the large volume of business transacted in the confines of the county and the able, efficient manner in which that business is carried on.

The guiding hand that determines the course and destinies of this enterprise; that asserts and directs its policies, is that of H. S. Roller, a man of real intellect and a most ardent booster for Columbiana county.

JOHN J. KELLEY

HARDWARE

When a man conducts a commercial enterprise in a town, large or small, it is incumbent upon him to conduct that enterprise in a manner befitting him and also the town in which it is situated. Mr. Kelley was born here in Columbiana county and will probably spend the rest of his life here. It is his home. In the conduct of his business he has always borne these facts in mind; to help make it a better place by giving it a better business house. The individual man, the individual business is but a small component part of the town or county in which he lives, so that by improving himself or business he must necessarily improve that town or county.

Since Mr. Kelley started here five years ago he has always tried to improve that business, by enlarging its size, stock, scope and service. A bigger store than ever before.

THE FIRESTONE BANK

President, R. W. Firestone; vice president, C. C. Connell, C. B. Firestone; cashier, W. H. Armstrong.

Lady Opportunity is knocking at your door. Are you wearing ear muffs? If legendary fiction can be given credence, then this whimsical Lady Opportunity, knocks neither loud nor often.

Are you ready? Can you help her? Can we help you? We can talk to you in this article but you must come here to talk to us. This bank is not too big to talk to you, no matter how small you may be. Though your business may mean nothing to us in the matter of material profit, we value it as evidence of your faith and reliance in us. And we're not hard to talk to. We feel that we are a friendly bank. You can come here with your overalls on. We like it. The sweat of your brow won't chill us. Now we're not going to make a lecture of this article, but this is The Firestone Bank at Lisbon speaking. If you'll come in and talk to us, we can help you when Lady Opportunity comes a knocking.

The Backbone of Columbiana and Mahoning Counties

The title for this article has been selected only after the subject had been given much thought and consideration. It was our desire that the title should be significant of the basic value of the community; that it should be descriptive of the real commercial strength and life of the community; that in brief it should be a story, sufficient in itself, requiring no elaboration. The word BACKBONE is used advisedly. If you study it carefully you will agree that it has a wealth of meaning and we feel justified in using it in its most liberal sense, for it is our conviction that these men of whom we write are the real BACKBONE OF COLUMBIANA AND MAHONING COUNTIES.

The various stores, garages and other industries included in these columns, centers of distribution for nearly all of life's necessities and many of its luxuries and their importance to the civic and industrial welfare of this section cannot be overestimated. Most of these stores are owned and controlled by men living within the confines of the community, and all of them without exception are conducted by men who live in this section, men who have the welfare and interests of this community deeply imbedded in their hearts. All of them are competent and capable business men who have by their combined and individual efforts given this section, business places that are second to none in the STATE, for the quality of merchandise sold, the service rendered and the careful courteous treatment of its patrons. The writer has no hesitancy in making these assertions. These business houses require no exaggerated truths. They are sufficiently good without them.

Men and places of this kind have placed the name of these counties upon a high plane, a lofty pinnacle of moral, civil and industrial standing and as long as men of this type elect to transact business here just so long will this section maintain that enviable position. One must remember that successful business houses are an absolute essential to the progress of any community. In fact a community cannot exist without them. They are dependent on your support, and you and your community are in turn dependent on them, and a perfect spirit of co-operation between you makes the ideal thriving community.

THE FARMERS NATIONAL BANK

The Farmers National Bank, established 1887. Farmers Savings & Loan Co., established 1919, Canfield.

A cycle of development in any business presents a very interesting study. For instance, What is a bank? A bank has been very aptly and simply defined as a reservoir of wealth. And it is. However, we feel that these banks are infinitely more than that. We feel that they are an economic necessity and inter-linked with their structure is the prosperity of the territory surrounding it. The modern bank gathers from many sources individual resources and pools them into one huge reservoir and in turn this reservoir is made available to industry for purposes of expansion and development that are immediately reflected in increased payrolls and disbursements of various natures which are returned to the bank as deposits, again increasing the reservoir and thus creating an endless and ever-widening cycle of expansion and development.

The laws of supply and demand are just as applicable to a bank as to any other business. As the resources of a bank increase new outlets must be found that can make use of these available resources; new industries are sought,—old ones revived, with the attendant result that there is more demand for labor, more demand for homes, more demand for everything that money will buy.

This bank does not advocate hoarded wealth. Hidden and latent wealth is of no material value to the individual or the community. Prosperity for us and you is only possible when the bank fulfills its function as the motive power of this cycle, always stimulating new depositors and creating new avenues for expansion. As good business men we feel it our duty.

CROWELL-WOODS

Furniture and Undertaking; Majestic and Philco Radio; Majestic Electric Refrigerators.

The City of the Dead we admit presents rather a gruesome spectacle, yet it is our predestined destination and impossible to evade. We must all journey there sometime on our last journey—our ultimate resting place. Therefore, these columns must tell the story of Crowell-Woods, funeral directors in Leetonia for the past 48 years.

With motorized funeral hearse and equipage, the services are conducted in a quiet, dignified manner, befitting the solemn occasion and with due consideration and sympathy for those bereaved ones left behind, relieving the bereaved of all unnecessary cares and worry at a time when they can ill afford any additional burden. From the moment the Grim Reaper descends upon the household, until the last moment, this firm exercises all its faculties, with that purpose in mind—to lighten your burden.

A very complete and varied line of furniture is also carried in stock by Crowell-Woods Co. Furniture carefully selected to grace the most beautiful home; furniture that displays the trend of many periods; furniture for every home and for every part of it.

JOHN W. SCOTT FLORIST

When you courted her you sent her flowers. Is there any good reason you shouldn't continue to do so? Do you think she likes them less now than she did then? If flowers gave her pleasure then, she'll enjoy them even more now. She'll be pleased to know that the years have made no difference in you,—that you still care in the same way. And you'll get a lot of fun out of it yourself for there is more pleasure in giving than in receiving.

And your Mother, you haven't forgotten her, have you? She'll not only appreciate the gift, but will delight in the spirit that prompts it. Mother's have always liked these little attentions and Mothers never change. They still like them. The table and home will look brighter and more cheerful if flowers are there. There is something fine about flowers—and there's something fine about those who give them.

Don't delay any longer. Let any day be Mother's Day. Call Lisbon 98 now and let Mr. Scott deliver your message of love and affection in the form of flowers.

LISBON LUMBER CO.

O. C. Caldwell, H. C. Neigh.

The most successful firms today are those who render the maximum in service and value. Business in general is dependent upon various factors, but in the final summation it all resolves itself into a matter of service and values. There is a keen demand in Columbiana and Mahoning counties upon the service and values that the Lisbon Lumber Co. offers you. This demand is based upon an intelligent appreciation of the real service and real values the firm has constantly given in its 21 years of activity in the lumber business. Under the capable management of its owners, O. C. Caldwell and H. C. Neigh, the firm has served splendidly the needs and demands of this community on its every order being carefully attended to.

LISBON BODY, FENDER AND REPAIR SHOP

G. Northrup, proprietor.

This modern garage, established in 1929 has since that time benefited much of the town's traffic and due to the service given and the quality of the work rendered, will continue to hold their slogan is, Satisfy a Pat And You Will Not Lose Him. Lisbon Body, Fender and Repair Shop tries mightily hard to satisfy and does. Several people are employed and the work is all done by trained men who know how to handle the hatchful eye of Mr. North himself. The charges are very reasonable. Mr. Northrup has been resident of Columbiana county years and since that time has entrenched himself as a very capable and straightforward business man; one who has always extended the fullest co-operation towards industrial and commercial uplift of the community; a good citizen; a good town.

SALEM BUILDERS

SUPPLY CO.

Coal and manufacturers of Concrete Blocks. Miss Hallie Roessel. The building interests of Columbiana and the territory adjacent have been well taken care of in past 19 years and this has been in large measure to that company you all know so well, the Salem Builders Supply Co., established here in 1912.

Everything to build anything. That's what The Salem Builders Supply sells. That takes in a lot of territory but it is so. And don't get that it is a very carefully selected line of building materials. You don't build a home every day and when you do build on days to exercise a little care in matter of materials. So buy it here where you are sure they good.

Remember that old song, "Bever so humble, there's no pride like home?" Home. There's a heart throb in it, isn't it? Home. Something we always think of, always want, always had a home. He lived for slavery for it and fought for it. E though it was a cave, it was nevertheless his home, his castle. too surely want a home. Have you often built castles in the air? You did. We all do. We all day dreamers. Nothing to ashamed of in that, is there? Building castles in the air. It's for you. But build one here, terra firma too. A real home, real rooms, roof, cellar, porch, everything. Not an ethereal pal just a plain every day home. In and let them show you easily it is done. Let them you. They can give you an accurate estimate of its cost.

DULL SAG FAILS TO HURT STOCKS

Moderate Losses Converted Into Narrow Gains In Quick Recovery

THE DAY In Sports

GOLF BALL OPINIONS
THREE TYPES OF HOWLS

AS THE OUTDOOR golfing season progresses it becomes increasingly apparent that the golfers' howl over the new ball is not going to yield to good natured direction. It is a chorus completely out of control.

Opinions fall readily into three classes. FIRST, and the one most frequently and vociferously expressed, is that the "balloon" ball is an inexcusable monstrosity inflicted on a golfing public already wide-eyed with the inescapable grief of trying to break 90 and having to be satisfied with dub performances. This class is surly and aggressive with the vigor of its convictions.

SECOND, is the class that, try as it will, can see no important difference in the performance of the old ball and the lighter, larger new one. Its members are likely to be found quietly checking this year's scores against last year's and calmly announcing that golfers are stroking about as usual. This is the class, furthermore, which opines that the noisy agony of the new ball's enemies is a shiny hidden alibi for flaws in playing ability that will persist until the national open is won by a one-season novice.

THE THIRD CLASS, least in numbers, doesn't have much to say. In it are to be found many excellent golfers—so excellent that their playing does not depend on the size and weight of the ball.

They admit that the new ball drives and puts differently from the old ball, but they don't admit that it is going to wreck America's second ranking national pastime. They are the philosophers of golf, in short. The new ball is here this season, so enjoy it. If the United States Golfing association sees fit to retract its decree eliminating the old ball from play before another season, that will be all right, too. All in all, the new ball is probably a better test of the individual player's true ability than the old ball was, but if enough individual players prefer a ball of more generous disposition they will have their way, even if they have to resort to a Literary Digest poll.

One thing only is fixed: All golfers must play with the same ball. The country must not be plunged into Lilliputian conflict over score cards.

AVERILL CLOUTS 20TH HOMER; MEL HARDER ON SLAB

Waite Hoyt Chased From Mound by Cleveland Batting Attack

BROWNS WIN OVER WASHINGTON TEAM

Cincinnati Breaks even In Twin Bill with Robins; White Sox Lose, 22-5

The Cleveland Indians Sunday ruined the Philadelphia Athletics' winning streak that had reached 13-game proportions, slugging Waite Hoyt from the slab with a barrage of 19 basehits and won their first game out of six from the Mackmen. The score was 13-2.

Harder Hurls Victory
Mel Harder, 21-year-old Cleveland slab artist, hurled for the Peckmen and allowed only nine hits while Hoyt and Rommel were hit safely by every Indian except fugitive Dick Porter and Harder. Burnett slugged out five hits out of six trips to the plate while reliable Earl Averill hit safely three times, one of them his twentieth homer.

Joie Voshak and Eddie Montague also connected for three safe clouts. The phrase "He threw the game away" is heard often enough in baseball. It took Big Jim Elliott of the Phillies to show a few thousand Chicago fans the fullest meaning of the words. Elliott, ace of the Phillie mound staff, went into yesterday's game with the Cubs in the ninth inning. The score was tied at 1-1 after a brilliant duel between Pat Malone and Clise Dudley but Charley Grimm had just threatened to break up the battle by hitting a triple.

"Jumbo Jim" faced only one batter and promptly cut loose with a wild pitch that allowed Teachout, running for Grimm, to scamper home with the run that brought Chicago a 2 to 1 victory.

Cubs In Second Place
The triumph put the Cubs into second place in the National league standing, a half-game ahead of the idle New York Giants.

Cincinnati divided a doubleheader with Brooklyn playing smart baseball to capture the opening duel between Larry Benton and Hollis Thurston, 4 to 0, although outthit 10-7.

Expert pitching helped Boston reduce the St. Louis Cardinals' lead to eight games by splitting a doubleheader. Fred Frankhouse and Sylvester Johnson battled ten scoreless innings of the first clash before they both weakened and Boston won out in the eleventh, 3 to 2. Paul Derringer had the better of the argument with Bruce Cunningham in the second clash, winning his 12th game of the year 5 to 4.

Browns Trim 5 to 4
The St. Louis Browns, led by Goose Goslin, downed Washington by a 5 to 2 score. Goslin's bat figured in every St. Louis run. Although held to five hits by Henry Johnson, the Chicago White Sox hit effectively to beat the New York Yankees 5 to 4 in the first game of a double bill. The Yanks, however, got their ire up after the first defeat by Chicago this season and ran up a 22 to 5 score in four innings of the second game before casting to the finish.

Boston and Detroit likewise divided. The Red Sox took the first in a tight ten inning battle, 7 to 6, but the Tigers, led by Charley Gehring, hammered out a 7 to 3 victory in the second. Gehring made five straight hits to show the way to the Detroit victory.

STARS IN CANTON TRACK CARNIVAL

When these youngsters perform in track and field events of the Kiwanis club night carnival at the Stark county fair grounds, Canton, this week, the spotlight should be centered on them. For they are among the most prominent athletes in Ohio.

Opposes Dave Appleby

Don McClelland of Akron, (upper left), will try to show Dave Appleby, also of Akron, (upper center), how to negotiate the pole vault. Appleby, known to Salem fans for his performance in meets at Reilly athletic stadium and winner of individual honors at the state meet in Columbus this year, is entered for the 100 yd dash and high hurdles. He and McClelland tied for the Akron City title in the vault last spring.

Allen Rudy of Canton (upper right) was Ohio's scholastic half-mile champion back in 1928 and is still recognized as a distance runner extraordinary. His record of 1 min. 59.2 sec. in the 880 still stands, and he is the heavy favorite in the carnival.

Smith In Four Events

William Smith (lower left) is entered in the discus, shot put 100 and 220-yd dashes. He won county, district and state laurels in the discus toss and bettered the Ohio record with a throw better than 135 ft.

Harold Hortsman and Harold Walker are two other Salem luminaries in the carnival. Hortsman should give Rudy the race of his life in the 880 while Walker will face stiff competition in the mile run. The latter won the state mile title last spring.

The carnival, staged by Canton Kiwanians for the benefit of the city's under-privileged and undernourished children, gets under way tonight. Thousands of fans—many of them from Salem—are expected.

PIRATES DEFEAT SUNSETS; TAYLOR WEAKENS IN 8TH

Groszkloss' Homer, Triple By Suhr Score Victory For Big Leaguers

Devoting the greater part of the game to clowning, the Pittsburgh Pirates rallied in the eighth inning to score four runs and defeat Earl Moseley's Sunset Park team, 5-3, in an interesting, if not exciting, game at Sunset park, near Alliance.

Nick Altrock, antics of the big leaguers amused and entertained fans for five innings and the Pirates went into the eighth frame facing a 3-0 handicap.

Len Taylor, Sunset speedball artist, granted only three hits in seven frames. The Pittsburghers pounced on Taylor for four hits, a triple by Suhr and a homer by Groszkloss, and took a 4-3 lead in the eighth.

The major league outfit reached Taylor for another run in the ninth. Kinney's double and Grantham's error gave the Sunsets a run in the third. A pass, a single and error gave the Alliance crew a run in the fourth. Crile hit a home run in the sixth.

Three Special Events Billed For Canton Carnival Tonight

Opening contests in the district tug-of-war tournament and a special track event will be the attraction at the night athletic carnival, sponsored by the Canton Kiwanis club, at the Stark county fair grounds tonight.

Salem Athletes Entered
Three Salem athletes, William Smith, Bruce Arnold and Henry Reese, are scheduled to compete in the special contests. Smith and Arnold are listed as competitors in the 100-yd dash while the three will compete in the 220. No Quaker star is entered in the 440, the third track event.

The tug-of-war tourney, involving 40 teams in a battle for Northeastern Ohio championship honors, is the big attraction at the carnival. Teams are entered from the entire district.

Stella Walsh To Run
Tuesday night Stella Walsh of Cleveland, the world's leading female speed merchant will be the featured performer at the carnival. Additional tug-of-war matches and contests in the pole vault and 120-yd high hurdles are scheduled.

Keith Roessler, Ed Beck and Wilhons in the vault.

PILES GO QUICK

Without Salves or Cutting
Itching, bleeding, protruding piles are caused by bad circulation of the blood in the affected parts. The parts become weak, flabby, almost dead. Only an internal remedy can remove the cause—that's why salves, suppositories and cutting fail. Dr. Leonard's prescription, HEM-ROID, succeeds because it removes congestion, restores circulation, heals and strengthens diseased parts. HEM-ROID has such a wonderful record of quick relief ending even piles of long standing that Lease Drug Co. and Broadway Lease Drug Store says one bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets must end your pile agony or money back.

FOLLIES GROUP HURT IN BLAST

Six Ziegfeld Stars In Hospital After Fire On Richman Launch

GREENPORT, N. Y., July 27. — Six persons, including three members of the Ziegfeld Follies, and Mark Hellinger, newspaper columnist, were in a hospital today, burned and injured in an explosion and fire aboard Harry Richman's launch yesterday.
The party was preparing to start on a fishing trip when the blast shook the 36-foot cruiser.
The injured were Miss Helen Walsh, Miss Virginia Biddle and Richman, all of the Follies; Hellinger, Sam White, a fishing captain of Greenport, and Sam Levy, Richman's chauffeur. Miss Walsh's condition is critical.
When Levy stepped on the starter Hellinger said, the boat burst into flames, and Miss Walsh was pulled out of the inner cabin, her dress aflame. She was thrown into the water to extinguish the flames.
Five fire companies beat out the flames, but the boat was wrecked.
Richman, once known as the man with the million dollar voice, has appeared in musical comedy and screen pictures. He was married in 1918 in California to Yvonne Stevenson. They were divorced in 1922.

MOVIES

"THE PUBLIC ENEMY"
At The Grand
"The Public Enemy," sensational expose of modern racketeering methods, comes to the Grand theater today. The film begins in the days of 1909, introducing the two main characters as young boys who go in for petty thieving. In this manner, their characters are so logically built that the balance of the picture becomes an intense biographical document.
With a stirring story linking everything together, "The Public Enemy" really gives us a picturization of the rise, and sometimes the fall, of many notorious underworld characters whose names and deeds are but very thinly disguised in the cast of characters.
Moreover, it brings vividly to the forefront the abilities of James Cagney who, with Edward Woods, forms the center of personality interest. Cagney is rapidly gaining laurels in the movie world for his splendid portrayals in "The Doorway to Hell" and "Sinners Holiday."

Others in the cast include Joan Blondell, Jean Harlow, Mae Clarke, Donald Cook, Beryl Mercer, Mia Marvin and others.
"THE NIGHT ANGEL"
At The State
The newest Nancy Carroll-Fredric March romantic drama, "The Night Angel," will be featured at the State theater today.
Miss Carroll, in the title role of the production, is seen as the daughter of an impoverished and disgraced countess who owns and operates a notorious night club in Prague, gay capital of modern Bohemia.
March is the public prosecutor, a brilliant legal mind, who brings about the arrest and incarceration of the countless only to arouse the hatred of the tempestuous Nancy.
When a brutal employee of the cabaret concocts a fiendish plot against March, Nancy's feelings toward the handsome young man change to love—and the ensuing events are scenes in which action and thrilling suspense are ever present.
